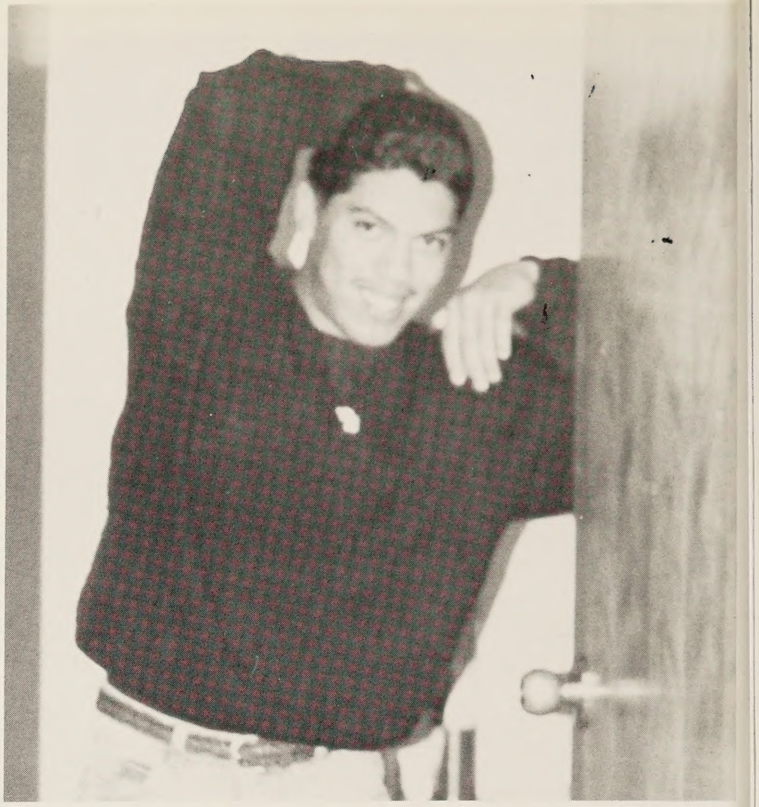
What has been your worst driving experience?

— Wrecking the driver's ed. car. (Stephanie "Crash" Benser)
— Making a 540 degree somersault, landing upside down, and being strapped to a backboard for 3 hours. (Pam Robinson)
— Having my drive shaft fall out in the middle of the street. (Ross Landis)
— Having 3 wrecks in one day. My parents never found out! (Chris Bolick)
— Almost driving a four-wheeler off a cliff. (Laura Frantzich)

What has been the strangest situation you have ever been in?

— When I had to decide whether to live with my mom or my dad. (Bianca Campbell)
— When I was in love. (Victor Castro)
— When I got caught at a girl's house and had to hide in the closet for three hours. (Adam Zandi)
— When I am at James Monroe High School! (Ross Landis)
— When I was accused of stealing when I was innocent. They refused to believe me! (Amy Gibson)



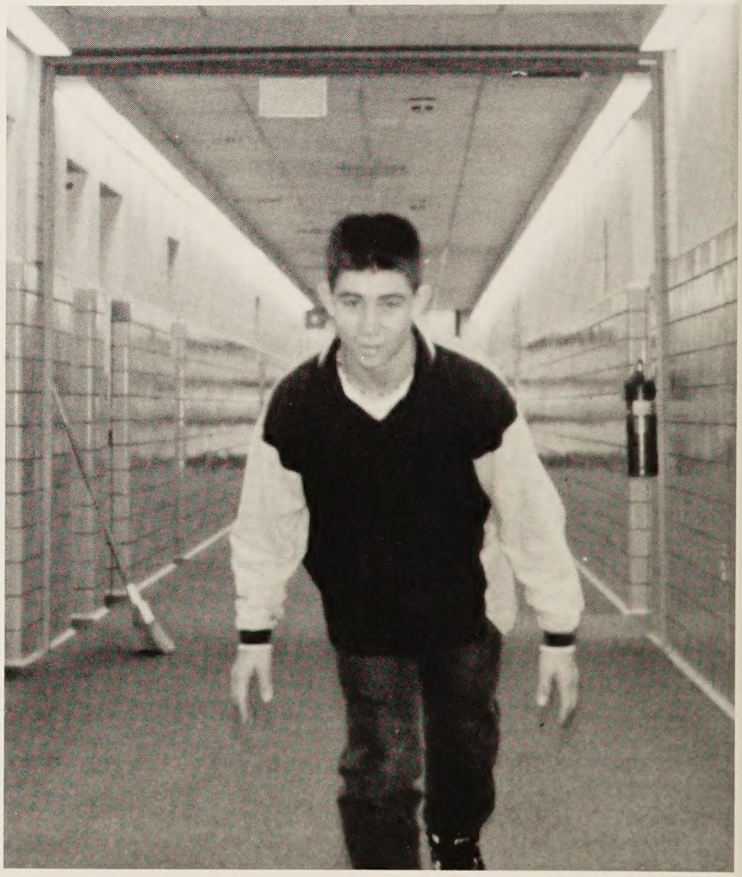
Oh! Zone

I think I have a crush when ...

— My friends are sick of hearing his name. (Pam Robinson)
— I get stupid and feel funny inside. ("Jimbo" Warlick)
— You see the special person and your heart goes THUMP. (Chris Bolick)
— I fall in love with their feet. (Victor Castro)
— I hang on her every word. (Ross Landis)

What has been your most embarrassing moment?

— When I sat on my little brother when he was six months old. (Nikia French)
— When I slid head first down a long hill in front of a pretty girl. (Adam Zandi)
— Clash Day! But it's OK, because I showed school spirit. (Jana Perkins)
— When I was running the 50 yard dash and my shirt flew up. I had no bra on. (Bianca Campbell)
— Losing my bikini top at a public pool, and having the lifeguard comment on it. (Amy Gibson)



Save the . . .

— ozone. (Jessica Tolosa, Amy Gibson)
— children. (Jana Perkins, Tiaa Harris, Adam Zandi)
— the football team (Chris Bolick)

In your opinion, what is the most important issue today?

— abortion (April Mauck, Tiaa Harris, Brett Schor, Ashton Ennis)
— the economy (Meredith Grimmer, Ross Landis, Valerie Bryant)
— world hunger (Pam Robinson)
— the environment (Victor Castro, Kim Carson, "Jimbo" Warlick, Jessica Tolosa)
— AIDS (Kyna Coble, Tiffany Tompkins, Adam Zandi, Jana Perkins, Amy Gibson)

If you could say one word to the world today, what would it be?

— Love. (Pam Robinson, Stacy Roach)

Clear the Air

What person has made the biggest difference in your life?

— Mr. Rodkey (Jana Perkins)
— Ms. Zacchini (Bianca Campbell)

Describe the most peaceful place you've ever been?

— the woods (Charlie Frye)
— a closet (Jessica Tolosa, Victor Castro)

Now that I'm graduating, I can tell . . .

— the cafeteria ladies that I don't want any fruit! (Amy Gibson)
— Holly Robinson that I think she's a babe. (James Sullivan)
— Mrs. Tyson that I am madly in love with her. (Rob Newman)

ENVIRONMENTAL AWARENESS

Environmental preservation is not only important in the lives of our future generations, but also in our lives today. Global warming, land and water pollution, and the continuing destruction of the world's rainforests are some of the many threats to our environment. Computers predict that the average global temperature will rise by several degrees within the next hundred years, land-fills are overcrowded with an abundance of non-biodegradable products, and the hole in the ozone grows larger every day. The fact that time is becoming exceedingly scarce is a concern voiced by environmentalists, economists, scientists, politicians, and the general public both in our country and around the world.

Environmental neglect will eventually result in the destruction of your home and community. It is up to you to make a difference. Plant a tree. A fast growing tree can recycle forty-eight pounds of carbon dioxide a year. Also, if planted to help shade residents, the tree can save in air conditioning costs. Don't leave your car idling. The fumes of idle cars make up twelve percent of smog contributions. Eat low on the food chain. Cattle produce methane through anaerobic bacteria in their digestive tracts. The ZPG (Zero Population Growth) in 1986 researched the total annual global food production and found that the earth could support six billion people on a vegetarian diet but only three billion people on a twenty-five percent animal-products diet. Vegetarianism is growing world wide as a humane and healthy alternative to the average meat-eaters diet today.

Using all-natural hair products, Charles Sutton does his part to preserve the environment.

Ms. Brooks takes care of business.

Is this our future?!?

Marianna Childress displays her environmental awareness on her lunch sack.

Garbage defaces the canal.

Recycling at the top! Mr. Burch takes his part in environmental conservation. He encourages students and faculty to participate in recycling efforts and has consistently supported all new recycling ideas.

Beware the justice of Nature.

Understand that there can be no successful human economy apart from Nature or in defiance of Nature.

Understand that no amount of education can overcome the innate limits of human intelligence and responsibility. We are not smart enough or conscious enough or alert enough to work responsibly on a gigantic scale.

In making things always bigger and more centralized, we make them both more vulnerable in themselves and more dangerous to everything else. Learn, therefore, to prefer small-scale elegance and generosity to large-scale greed, crudity and glamour.

Love this miraculous world that we did not make, that is a gift to us.

As far as you are able, make your lives dependent upon your local place, neighborhood and household — which thrive by care and generosity — and independent of the industrial economy, which thrives by damage.

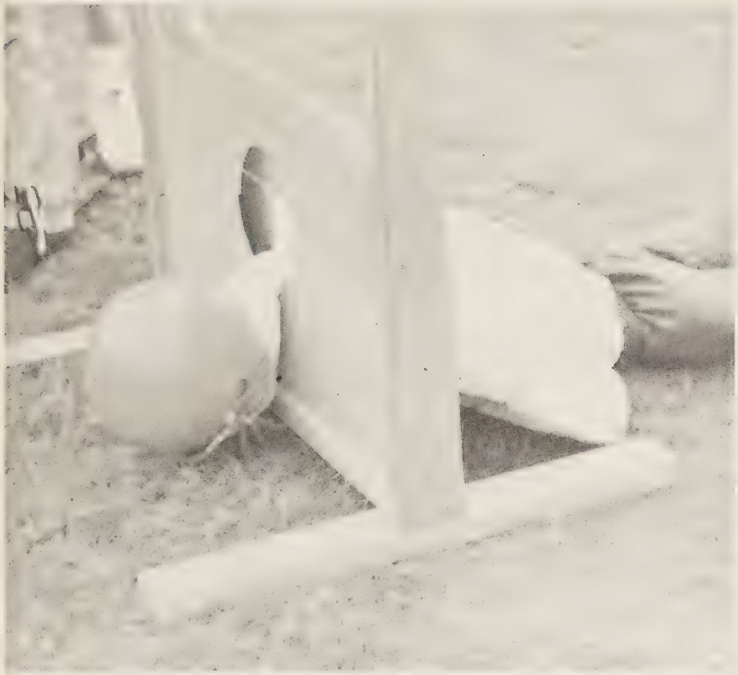
Find work, if you can, that does not damage . . .

WHAT IN THE WORLD

Billy Saylor, Brett Schor, Erik Peterson . . . they're too sexy for their shirts.

The Eighth graders . . . Hey, why aren't they on the floor?!?

Hey Jackets! What? Shake your body!



NOISE POLLUTION

From the moment the band assembles and the cheerleaders are in place, James Monroe High School is transformed from a solemn and silent mecca of learning to Carl's Ice Cream on closing night.

With the advent of the outdoor pep rally and more underclass participation, pep rallies at Jayem have become an arena for spirit and vocal damage. Students need to feel unified at school and what better way to do that than with school spirit created by pep rallies. You can always count on Seniors to express school spirit because they are so happy to be finally leaving, but we must give credit to Eighth graders because they're gutsy enough to be loud and obnoxious. Together they create enough noise that the middle grades can join in without anybody noticing!! At James Monroe, pep rallies are no longer "tombs of silence."

Guillotine Orange!!!

Hey Juniors . . . Tastes Great!!!

SOLAR ENERGY

Traditionally at James Monroe, the week before Homecoming has always been designated as spirit week. This year was no different.

On Monday, students and faculty participated in Clash Day. On this day, many color combinations and mismatched patterns pervaded the halls. Wednesday, the halls of Jayem were filled with "double trouble" as the faculty and students dressed up as twins. However, some people wanted three times the fun so they dressed up as triplets. Some members of the administration were even seen as quintuplets. Wednesday was designated as Hat Day. Hats varying in sizes, colors, and styles adorned the heads of all Jayem. The famous Rap group Kriss Kross was emulated on Thursday as students and faculty alike wore their clothing backwards. Many had to ignore the inconvenience of going to the bathroom and the uncomfortable butt zipper. Friday was Spirit Day. The entire school showed spirit by wearing orange and black.

On Friday afternoon, Spirit Week came to an end with a pep rally. The traditional powder Puff football game was the highlight of the rally as the upperclass girls played football while the guys dressed up as cheerleaders in their stunning attire of cheerleading skirts and sports bras.

With so many students and faculty participating, this year's spirit week surpassed all expectations.

Arriba! Arriba! Y ja!

Don't get your eyes checked, you're not seeing triple! It's just The Sisters Suggs.

Aaron Peterson "warmed it up" on Kriss Kross Day.

JACKETS

There's no butts about it. This was a fun game!

Alison Czahor, Sarah Jennings, and Julie Pryor are going above and beyond the call of duty as they dress as triplets on twin day.

Robbie Newman is "totally Krossed-out" for Kris-Kross Day.

"Hellooo down there!" Melissa Northern helps decorate the Sophomore hall.

"Wassup" say Chris Scott, Robert Carter, and Terry Shepherd on Hat Day.

The Junior girls played the Seniors as the boys cheered from the sidelines.

On the night of the Homecoming game against Orange, the fans packed the stands wearing the traditional Yellow Jacket black and orange. Even though we lost the game this year, in no way was our spirit defeated. There were many Jayem graduates who returned to join the enthusiastic crowd cheering for the team.

The SCA creatively decorated the gym with balloons and streamers and provided refreshments for the dance held Saturday night. The atmosphere was energized by the sounds of the DJ. The Homecoming Court and King and Queen, Elvis Brooks and Beth Farrington, danced to the theme "Slow Dance." The chaperones, students, and guests all had a magical night as they danced the night away.

Seniors, Elvis Brooks and Chantel Lewis cross the football field, as members of the Homecoming Court, for the last time.

Below, a surprised Beth Farrington is crowned Homecoming Queen.

Soon to be crowned, Airrion Andrews and Leslie Banks await the announcement of prince and princess.

Niesha Washington escorted by Lee Cherwek walks forward to accept her flowers from Mr. Bailey.

WORLD PEACE

Tega Chijavadze

Tega, from the Republic of Georgia, decided to be a foreign-exchange student to learn more about American culture and language. He enjoyed membership in the Spanish Club, and being an active participant in the Yearbook class. Tega likes to listen to classical music and dreams of traveling to Australia and Mexico.

Martine Banville

After twelve years of studies, Martine chose to enhance her degree by spending a thirteenth year of school here in the US. When she returns to Quebec, a technical school waits for her. Martine's dream is to go around the world in order to explore different cultures. Martine entertained many students at Jayem with her special talents of spooning.

Jessica Hartwig

Our Swedish student, Jessica, a skier since she was four, just had to try the US slopes. She also travelled to California and found it GREAT! Here at James Monroe, Jessica had the most fun in Ms. Perry's Drama class. Her greatest discovery during her stay was FROZEN YOGURT. We expect to find Jessica's FROZEN YOGURT Shoppe on our next trip to Sweden.

Ivan Mendoza

The parties and the weather were the biggest differences between America and Venezuela, according to Ivan. During his time here, he played soccer and basketball, as well as coached Fredericksburg Recreation League Soccer. Going to the movies with friends and riding his bike filled his spare time. (He was a BIG hit at Homecoming with His Latin moves!)

Alex Schol

Alex, our exchange student from Germany, likes to travel, and has visited many countries in Western Europe, but this was his first time in America. He loved best the school spirit and the friendly Americans at James Monroe High School. Although Alex never ran competitively in Germany, here in the US he rose to stardom on the JM cross-country team.

Sveta Gorelik

After graduating from school in Moscow, Sveta decided to come to the United States as a foreign-exchange student. Sveta enjoys traveling and reading. She said that the people here are extremely different from the people in Russia, and spend their time differently. When Sveta returns to her homeland, she looks forward to pursuing furture interests.

Dear Students and Faculty of James Monroe,

Being an exchange student was not as easy as you might think. It took a lot of courage to take the step and leave my family and friends. Many times I thought, "What am I doing?" But whatever it took, it was all worth it!

My year here gave me so much. Not only was I able to improve my English, I was able to learn how Americans live. The thing I loved best about American high schools, particularly James Monroe, was the school spirit — the decorations before games, the cheerleading, and the "secret pals." I am so happy that I got the chance to be an exchange student and I would never miss the chance to go again if I got another opportunity.

Finally, I want to give a special thanks to all the friendly Americans who made my year in the United States the best time of my life. I will never forget you.

Love,
Jessica

From top to bottom: Jessica, Ivan, Tega, Sveta

BEST DRESSED FROM HEAD TO TOE

We conducted a survey amongst a variety of students and here are the results:

Favorite Team Hat: Chicago Bulls
Favorite Brand of Shirt: Polo
Favorite Brand of Jeans: Guess

We also found that the most common place to shop is The Gap. One welcoming fact about JM is that anything goes. Students feel comfortable wearing whatever style they choose, no matter how eclectic.

Dressed in slim jeans and a multi-colored shirt, Sonny Hawkins poses for the camera.

Alison Czahor and Meredith Grimmer smile and show off their short skirts and fashionable tops.

Over the years at James Monroe High School, clothing styles have constantly changed. Everyone tries to make their own fashion statement by choosing clothes and accessories which highlight their uniqueness. Only during Spirit Week on Twin Day would you find two people dressed exactly the same.

Some schools are opting for uniforms to avoid putting pressure on students to "out-fashion" each other. Rather than wearing jeans and T-shirts or turtlenecks and leggings, uniforms consist of such uncomfortable attire as polyester pants or pleated skirts with white starched oxfords and TIES. We here at Jayem prefer to express our individuality by dressing the way we want rather than a way dictated by school policy. Thanks Mr. Burch!

Pam Robinson poses for the camera to make a fashion statement.

SNICKERS

Everybody seems to love Snickers! The students in Mrs. Zacchini's Journalism class made a fortune selling Snickers for the Spotlight, the school newspaper.

Cindy Crawford topped the list of best looking women, but Ms. Brooks was not far behind. The big MALCOLM X star, Denzel Washington, took a big victory as the best looking man. The favorite movie-stars, Julia Roberts and Dustin Hoffman, both acted in Steven Spielberg's movie HOOK. Chicago Bulls's Michael Jordan, who also played on the dreamteam in the Olympics this year, took the gold medal for being the best male athlete. There was no question that the fastest woman in the world, Jackie Joyner Kersey, was the favorite female athlete.

"What you want is what you get at McDonald's today," so the commercial says. Big Mac and french fries — that's what everybody wants these days. Lynn Wagner, Angie Musselman, Kelly Cornelius, and Nicole Williams enjoy lunch after seeing "Romeo and Juliet" in Richmond with Mrs. Perry's Drama class.

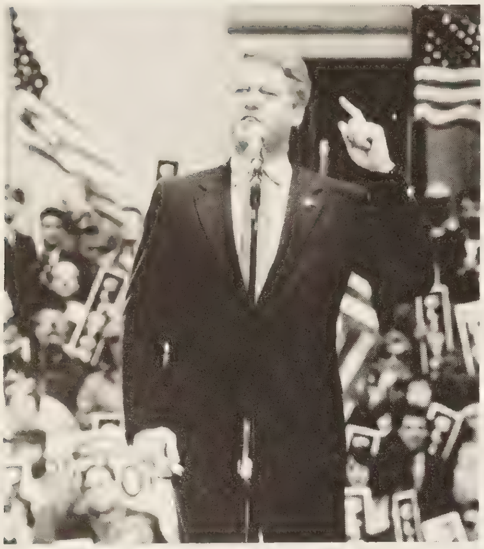
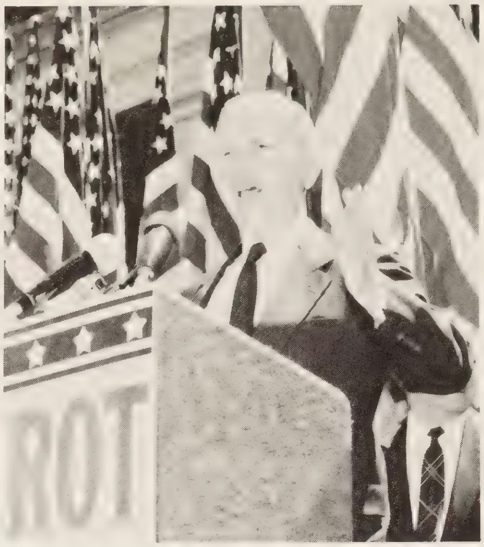
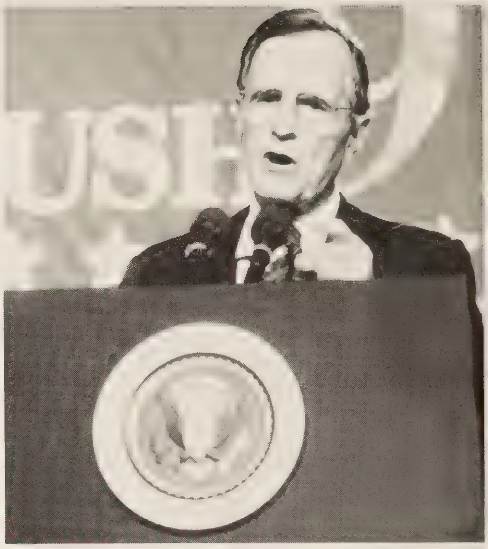
WORLDLY WAYS



Bill Clinton stepped into the national spotlight and won the nomination at the Democratic convention in New York City. He later won the Presidential election and was inagurated in January as the 42nd President of the United States.



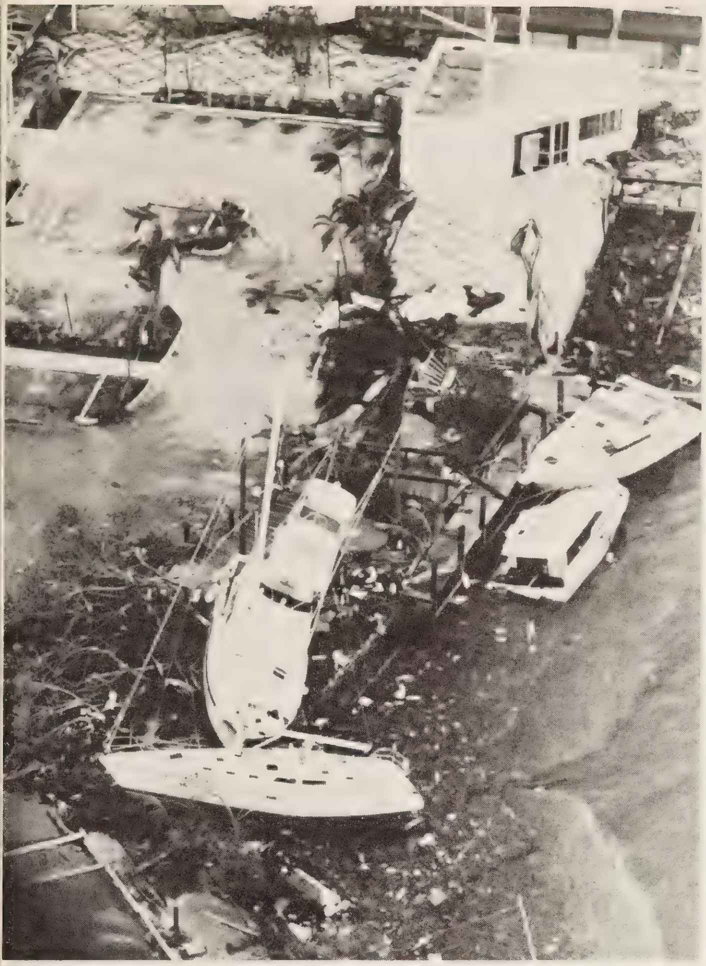
Ross Perot, the on-again, off-again independent candidate, joined the race, then dropped out, then joined again just weeks before the election. Unfortunately all the money spent on TV ads was in vain; Perot did not win one electorial college vote.



President George Bush kept Dan Qualye as his running mate for his attempt at the second term in office. The two arrived at the GOP convention in Houston as underdogs to the Clinton/Gore ticket and in November, America said four years was enough.

Barcelona, Spain, hosted the Summer Olympics in 1992 and it proved to be a bonanza for the United States — a total of 108 medals — and for Fredericksburg. Mark Lenzi, our native diver, came home with a gold medal and Jeff Rouse, our native swimmer, came home with a silver one. Carl Lewis, pictured, may not make it to the next Olympics — he'll be 35 by then — but he won two gold medals this time, one for the long jump and one in the 400-meter relay.

When Rodney King was stopped by police on a Los Angeles freeway, police say he resisted them and was beaten. Someone videotaped the melee and released the tape to local television stations. It received national attention, and four white officers were charged in the beating of King, who was black. But when a jury found them innocent of any wrong-doing, three days of rioting hit Los Angeles. When it ended, 52 people were dead, 2,383 were injured, 18,807 were arrested, and the amount of property damage was estimated at $785 million. "Can't we all just learn to live together?"

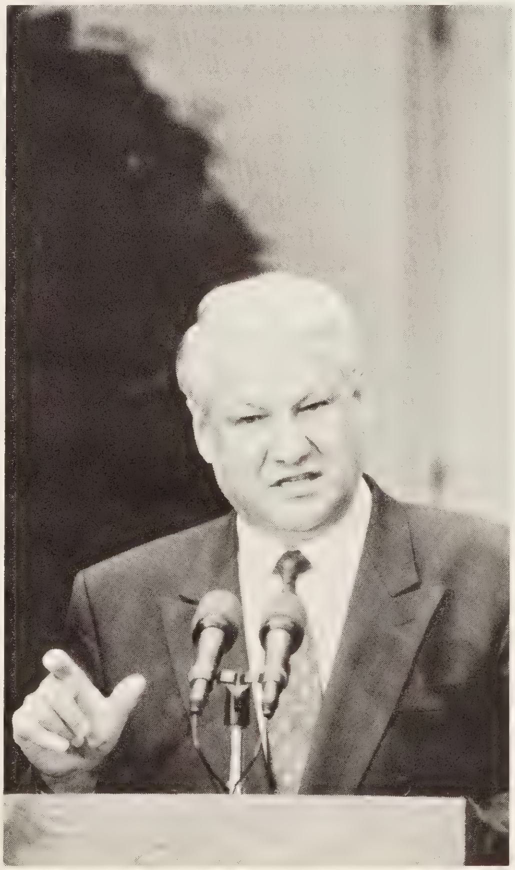


HURRICANE ANDREW — Hurricane Andrew carved its way through the Bahamas and hit south Florida with a powerhouse intensity before moving into Louisiana. It was a harrowing time as tens of thousands of people tried to evacuate the Miami area and thousands more rode out the storm in shelters and boarded-up homes. At least 51 deaths were directly attributed to the storm — 41 in Florida and 10 in Louisiana. The amount of damage was estimated at $20 billion in Florida and nearly $2 billion in Louisiana. The hurricane's 54-hour rampage, the most expensive natural disaster ever to hit this country, left an estimated 180,000 homeless in Florida alone.

On the other side of the United States, Hurricane Iniki reared its ugly head. Winds gusting up to 160 mph and torrential rain hit the Hawaiian island of Kauai while twenty-foot waves crashed over its coastal highways. Oahu, the state's most populated island, separated from Kauai by an 80-mile channel, was spared the brunt of the storm. This was a year of rough weather.

America needs to recycle. America also needs to use recycled products. Recycling efforts have produced vast supplies of reusuable trash, but not enough demand for recycled products.

Civil war spread across Yugoslavia, a nation of six republics and two provinces that has been plagued for centuries by ethnic and religious differences. Nationalist, anti-Communist parties won elections in all republics except Serbia and Montenegro. Then Croatia and Slovenia declared their independence. Rivalries are strongest between the Serbs, who belong to the Orthodox church, and the Croats, who are Roman Catholic.



In 1991, Borris N. Yeltsin was elected president of the Russian Federation. One of his top priorities was economic reform. But the gloomy economic condition reflected the grave difficulties he and his government faced in trying to build a market economy on the ruins of the failed Soviet Communist system. While attempting to establish economic and political ties abroad, Yeltsin's reforms at home increased prices by as much as 1,500 percent during the first part of 1992. And many Russians felt that the reforms had damaged their living standards significantly.

At James Monroe, students get to school in many ways, have diverse course schedules and lunch waves, and participate in a number of after school activities.

Transportation should not be a problem at Jayem with so many options available. The school provides a bus system that covers all areas within the city limits. However, many students choose to drive their own cars to school, or they may catch a ride with their friends or parents. Those that live closer to school have the option of riding their bikes or walking.

Before the 1st bell rings, much goes on in the halls. It is not uncommon to find students finishing their homework assignments at the last minute or just chatting with their friends. But the minute the bell rings, there is a mad rush to class — except for those who come in late. You know who you are, and so does Ms. Laskowski!

For some people, the highpoint of the day is lunch. In the four lunch waves here at Jayem, students spend time socializing as well as eating. Some students bring their own food, while others brave the school lunch.

After school, students participate in a variety of activities ranging from sports and clubs to just hanging out in the parking lot. However, most prefer to leave school as soon as possible.

Wouldn't everyone agree that the experience at James Monroe High School is a unique one?

Naughty, Naughty! Homework is supposed to be done at home, Jonathan Bushman.

The administrators at the Central Office often do not get the recognition they deserve. As a result of the initiative of our Superintendent, Dr. Garnett, and his accomplished staff, the Fredericksburg City Public School system continues its commitment to excellence. Some of the behind-the-scenes staff at the Central Office include Rick Hall, General Supervisor; Dr. Northern, Assistant Superintendant; and Dr. Blackman, Director of Instruction. These fine folks are not only responsible for the administration of James Monroe High School, but of Walker Grant Middle School and of Hugh Mercer Elementary School as well. We are proud of the efficient manner in which our schools are administered, and we feel blessed to have a veteran and professional staff.

Mrs. Mary Burton-Johnson is the director of Vocational and Special Education at the Central Office.

Hola! Mrs. Burch's Spanish class enjoys attempting to speak a new tongue.

Required academics provide the foundation courses for all of our studies. Academic disciplines such as English, Social Studies, Math, Science, and Foreign Languages act as the basis for further study in any area of interest. Whether a student enters college or the business world, a mastery of these subjects will provide the tools of success.

In World History class, Bevan Clark, Sara Rycroft, Laney Waldrep, and Andre Lewis are in a heated discussion over the religions of the world. NOT!

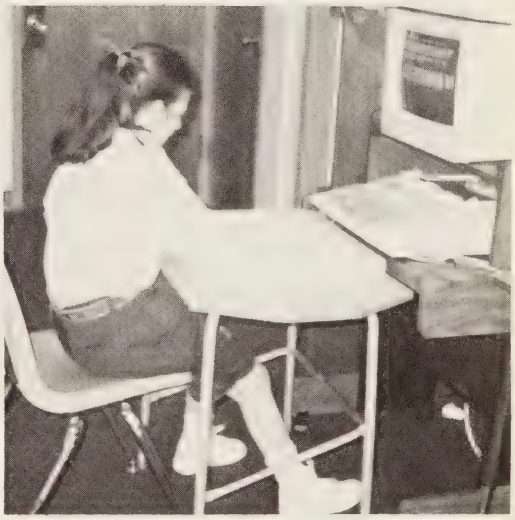
The Severe/Profound program at JM is a multi-faceted one. Each student receives individualized instruction in order to increase personal independence. This process involves special education teacher Ms. Sandy Bull and a variety of additional school personnel. The class participates in Adaptive PE with Ms. Crismon and Life Skills with Ms. Darden, and some students receive additional physical therapy, occupational therapy and speech services.

Self-help skills are always stressed in the SPH class. Students have the opportunity each day to practice grooming, table manners, food preparation, and pre-vocational skills (eg. dishwashing). Each day students participate in community-based instruction aimed at increasing appropriate social behavior, life skill independence, and "experience repertoire." The class has visited McDonalds, Old Mill Park, the Mall, the bowling alley, pet shops, and the recycling area. Their personal progress has been dramatic! Communication skills are greatly stressed in the SPH class. There is a variety of assistive technology in the classroom such as a talking computer, a touch window computer screen, and a typewriter using Facilitative Communication (a technique involving holding a wrist or arm so students can type). All students can communicate; one even uses his feet.

The students in Ms. Bull's class are kind, loving, and hard working and each possesses a unique sense of humor. The SPH class is a beneficial and integral part of James Monroe High School.



Courtney Price loves the talking computer. She can even make it sing songs.

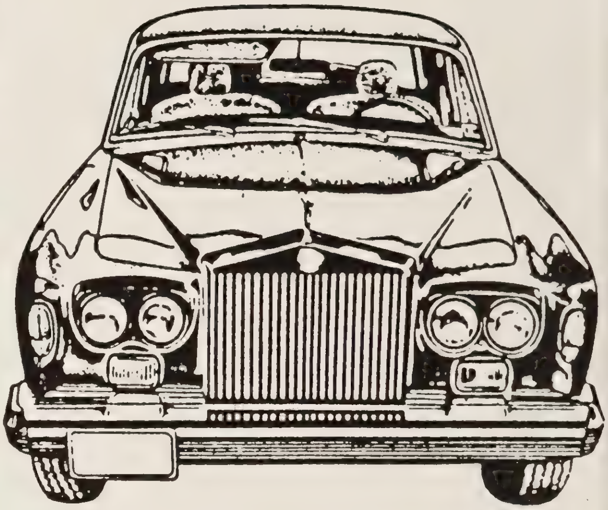
BUILD A BETTER WORLD



Hey, Doug . . . you missed a spot!

The students at James Monroe High School have always been appreciative of the time they have spent in vocational classes. Not only do the students enjoy themselves, but they also acquire the skills and the drive they need to prepare for what lies ahead. Here at Jayem, the Vocational Technology classes have been expanded to include a broad range of career possibilities from which the student can choose. These courses include Automotive Technology, Carpentry, Home Economics, and many others, all with diverse applications. Each of these courses builds integrity in the student — integrity necessary for success.

FINE ARTS

ART

If you ever wanted to know what went on in Art, Drama, Chorus, Orchestra, or Band, you simply had to look around. Students released their talents in every way and produced creations that were shared throughout the school. Students in Fine Arts tried their best to please themselves as well as the student body and faculty by adding beauty and creativity to our environment.

Students take Fine Arts classes for a variety of reasons. "I took drama because it is a chance to be someone else," says Junior Jessica Tolosa. "I took Art because it gave me time to paint and draw the world the way I see it," said Sophomore Christina Sponsellor. Whatever their reason, the creative touches Fine Art students add to the school atmosphere are greatly appreciated.

CHORUS

The definition of chorus is "a group of singers who perform together," but if you have ever listened to any of the numerous chorus groups that are available, you know it is much more than that. Ms. Carr, the choral instructor, teaches her students to sing and makes it fun by putting movements to the music.

Another important branch of chorus belongs to the men.

Together, Victor Castro and Elvis Brooks take time out of their busy schedules to fill the halls with music.

BAND

Whether it be a game or a pep ralley, the band always seems to bring the crowd together. Mr. Barns, the band instructor, and the enthusiastic, spirited band members had a successful year. Working together and the support of the school contributed to their success.

The band members practiced before school as well as during the school day to perfect their inspirational music.

STRINGS

The orchestra, while not as visible as the band, still provides a strong forum for music appreciation. Mrs. Fennych and the talented orchestra always looks and sounds first-rate! The orchestra is a fine example of practice makes perfect.

Music is an attitude as well as a sound.

EXPANDING HORIZONS

Latin students expanded their horizons by traveling to Italy during the summer. At last they were able to visit those sites they had read about and studied in their classes. And what a trip it was! While winding through the canals of Venice, soaking up the atmosphere of the Roman Forum in ancient Rome, and viewing the art of Florence, they came to realize that the American way is not the only way. It is the great diversity in cultures that makes the world such an interesting and exciting place.

A gondola ride in Venice . . .

RENAISSANCE DAY

Many students worked hard to make Renaissance Day a success. Art students displayed paintings in the library, drama students performed original plays based on Renaissance figures and events, and Mrs. Robinson's business classes reenacted port activities on a ship's bow in the middle of the library. Various contests were held and prizes were awarded for the best costumes, projects, and decorations. There was even a treasure hunt around the city of Fredericksburg. Renaissance Day was a great learning experience for all.

"Grin and bear it." Peter Elstner won first prize for his costume.

HURTS SO GOOD

On November 17, the National Honor Society, along with the American Red Cross, sponsored James Monroe's annual Blood Drive. In order to be eligible to give blood, one had to be 17 years old and weigh over 110 pounds. Even with these restrictions, Jayem students responded in great numbers.

This year, as a result of stricter rules for blood handling, the Red Cross was unable to utilize students' rare talent for carting quarts of the red stuff. Certified adult volunteers, as well as the doctors and nurses, had to do all the duties including the manual labor. The student members of the National Honor Society ran the canteen and served as escorts for the donors. A job well done!

THE ONE ACT PLAY

THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER

Jesse	Kelly Brown
Lucas	Jonathan Hooper
Bert	David Stein
Cora	Beth Farrington
Edna	Diane Brady
Corporal	Randall Ussery

"The Unknown Soldier" takes place in the 1860's in the middle of the Civil War. While mourning the deaths of their loved ones, Jesse, Lucas, Bert, Cora, and Edna plot to kill an innocent Corporal who came to offer his condolences from the government. The play is a drama that exemplifies the destruction of war and a family's tragic resolution.

The one-act play, written by Warren Frost, was preformed by James Monroe at the VHSL One-Act Play Competition held on November 14 at Orange County High School. The competition included seven other high schools in the area. Mrs. Perry, who directed the play, was extremely pleased with the casts' performance.

Jon says to himself, "Oh no, here goes the glass story again!"

JIM VANCE

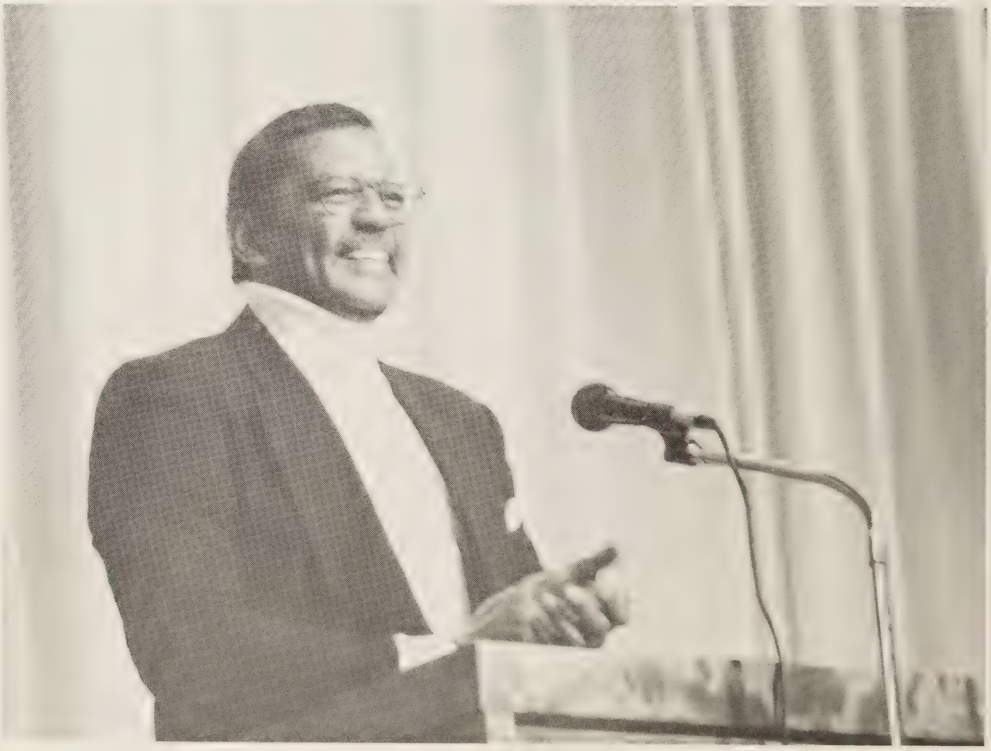
In November, James Monroe High School had the special privilege of having Jim Vance speak to our student body. Jim Vance, anchorman for Channel 4 WRC-TV News in Washington D.C., expressed the importance of having self-esteem and taking charge of your life.

Many students found that his presentation was one that they could relate to in a variety of ways. He made an especially striking statement when he said, "There may be a small high in drugs; but after a few small highs, death will seem like a pleasure." What Mr. Vance was trying to express to his audience was that even though drugs will at first seem pleasurable, invariably, addiction will decimate the user to such a degree that death would then be a pleasure.

Mr. Vance feels that "if you want something in life, you've got to work for it." He related a personal experience to convey this thought to his audience. The most memorable example he gave was of an encounter he had once had at a gas station. A man at the pump next to him was admiring his Mercedes. The stranger then went on to ask him how long it had taken for the car to be delivered once it had been ordered. Vance told the man that it had taken him twenty years of waiting in order to gain that possession. He was signifying the depth of his efforts over two decades to arrive where he is today.

He also spoke of how bad company corrupts good morals. His most memorable statement was something his grandmother used to tell him, "If you lay down with dogs, you are going to wake up with fleas."

In conclusion, Mr. Vance drew upon his personal experiences in order to convey the seriousness of staying away from drugs, believing in yourself, and becoming your own person because, "Nothing in your life is bad enough that dope is going to improve it."



Mr. Vance enjoyed the moments he spent speaking to the students of James Monroe High School.

MOCK ELECTION

George Bush and Dan Quayle, along with their wives, wave to supporters at the Republican National Convention in October.

Mr. Rodkey moderates the debate between David Witter, Betsy Harris, and John Harris, members of the Young Republicans Club, and members of the young Democrats Club, before the Mock Election.

Bill Clinton and Al Gore appear victorious, even before the election, at the Democratic National Convention.

On October 26, 1992, James Monroe's registered voters for the mock Presidential Election, took to the poles to let their voices be heard among the nation's schools in the mock election sponsored by TIME Magazine. The purpose of this election was to encourage the " . . . recommendations of America's students to the newly-elected President and Congress." It is through experiences such as this election that voices of a younger generation are heard, so that the nation and elected officials will know the viewpoints of future voters and leaders. There was a massive turnout and approximately two-thirds of the student body registered to vote. Registration for the election was held outside of the cafeteria each lunch wave for a period of over a week. Both parties took turns running the registration table and the turnout was more than favorable.

On this day, James Monroe students met in their respective English classes to cast their ballots for President and voice their opinions on several keystone issues facing our country. Of the registered voters at Jayem who were present that day and voted, a 2 to 1 majority picked Bill Clinton to be the next President. The final results for president were: Bill Clinton: 239 votes cast, George Bush: 100 votes cast, and Ross Perot: 79 write in votes cast.

SENIOR PLAY

Ali Hakim (Ben Carton) ponders how to say goodbye to Ado Annie (Melanie Stevens).

Laurey (Katrina Wissel), Ado Annie (Melanie Stevens), and Aunt Eller (Danica Samuel) look at the ugliest fringe they ever saw on top of a surrey.

Celebrating the fiftieth anniversary since it's opening on Broadway, Mrs. Perry chose OKLAHOMA! as this year's Senior Play. Forty-five students were in the cast and thirty were in the crew.

They performed the play on Friday and Saturday nights, March 26th and 27th in Jayem's auditorium. On Saturday, parents of the seniors and faculty members enjoyed a dinner theater.

OKLAHOMA! is a love story that centers around Curly (Rob Newman) and Laurey (Katrina Wissel). She is a farmer's daughter and he is a cowboy. They are in love, although Laurey won't admit it. Curly, however, knows that he will have to change his life to marry Laurey but still wants to. At the same time, Ado Annie (Melanie Stevens) enjoys her popularity among the men and has a problem saying, "No!" to them. She is torn between her steady, Will (Jonathan Hooper) a cowboy, and a wandering peddler, Ali Hakim (Ben Carton).

Several school departments pitched in to help the production. Mr. Young and his carpentry class helped with the sets. Mrs. Larson and her art classes helped with the painting of the sets. Ms. Carr was the music director and Mrs. Fennych directed the orchestra which played for both performances. Mr. McFall and the Graphics Communication class designed and printed the play programs.

Mrs. Perry and the young actresses and actors were at the school practicing Monday through Thursday for over a month. Mrs. Perry said, "This is honestly the most talented senior class I have ever worked with." All of the hard work of the teachers, the cast, and crew paid off and the production was a tremendous success.

"HE-HE-HE-HEEEE!" Gertie (Evan Whitley) exudes her infamous laugh.

Rob Newman, Stuart Day, and Jonathan Hooper discuss lines before rehearsal.

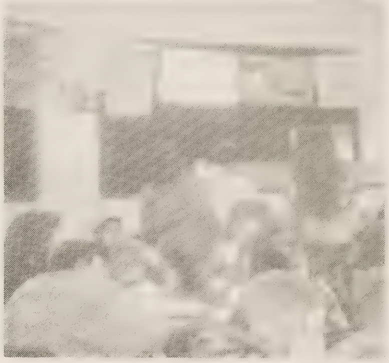
The Spanish club started off in November with their traditional Mexican fiesta "Dia de Los Difuntos." With the help of parents they were able to prepare and enjoy authentic Mexican foods and holiday treats. The Club also saw slides on Spain and spoke with our own foreign exchange student, Ivan Mendoza from Venezuala.



Fiesta! The Spanish Club really knows how to have fun, and eat.

FRENCH CLUB

The James Monroe French Club is not your ordinary club. They show their sensitivity and respect for others by providing an annual Christmas party for the faculty and staff. When it comes to festivity they are alive on Febuay 23rd for Mardi Gras.

Julie Pryor tastes some of the food she supplied for the faculty and staff Christmas party.

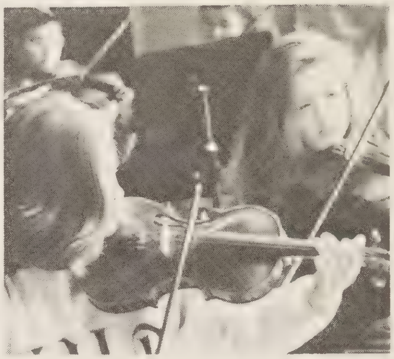
Under the direction of Mrs. Fennych, the James Monroe Orchestra performed this year at the Christmas Concert, for the Senior Musical, and for senior citizens in the community. She attributes their beautiful sound to talent and lots of practice.



Paying no attention to the cameras, Afton Sessions gets busy with her vibrato.

Band

The James Monroe Band is one of the school's oldest traditions.

The Band performed at football games and at local and state parades. They also performed at a parade in Washington DC in March and at the Spring Fine Art's Festival.

The band cannot but help to find inspiration in the environment.

MONROE SINGERS

Monroe Singers, a select co-ed chorus, performed concerts here at school, such as Sights and Sounds, as well as a concert at St. George's Episcopal Church. The group also sang at the boys' basketball games.

While the others look at Ms. Carr, John Lomax answers to a higher call.

ROW 1: Danica Samuel, A'Dan Lynch, Jennifer Brown, Kathrina Wissel, Leslie Banks; ROW 2: Francisco Jimenez, Victor Castro, Jessin Bacon, Randall Ussery, Elvis Brooks

MUSIC-IN-MOTION

Music-In-Motion is an all-girls selected chorus which performs many times throughout the year. This year they considered the Christmas Pageant to be their concert highlight. In May, the group traveled to VA Beach to compete in the Chorus Festival.

ROW 1: Faye King; ROW 2: Nikki Parker, Sharon Turner, Erica Karlsson, Calandra Deyo; ROW 3: Natalie Coles, Felicia Shelton, Stephanie Revis, Kristin Laskowski, Sabrina Staples, Tendra Shepherd, Lavonda Minor; ROW 4: Maria Comstedt

Without Lavonda Minor, there would be no motion.

The Women's Chorus at James Monroe is an elective that is available to females of all grade levels. Under the direction of Ms. Carr, they prepare songs for concerts including the Winter Concert and Sights and Sounds, which takes place in May.

Ms. Carr leads the Women's Chorus in a vocal warm-up.

MEN'S CHORUS

Strains of the pleasant sounding harmony between bass and tenor can be heard from the band room as the Men's Chorus practices for a concert. They sang Christmas carols at the Winter Concert and performed with the Women's Chorus at Sights and Sounds.

FOOTBALL

James Monroe's Varsity Football was young this year, having only one starter return for the season. Although many of the players were inexperienced, they worked hard both on and off the field. When the players were not practicing, they were lifting in the weight room to add strength and stamina. One of the main goals of this past season was to make the players into a cohesive team. Everyone was very enthusiastic and Coach Serbay was optimistic about working with a young team's potential.

Players cheer on their teammates as they prepare to go on the field.

Rob Jones, Adam Zandi, Jaime Castro, and Derek Gordon wait patiently on the sideline.

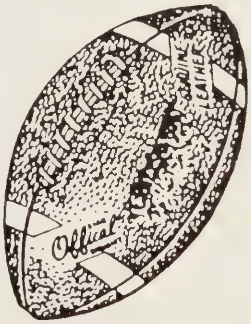
After a rigorous first half, the Jackets leave the field for a pep talk from Coach Serbay.



JV FOOTBALL

With the influx of thirty eager and enthusiastic 8th graders, the JV Football team had a positive building season. Led by Coaches Tucker, Young, and Wheat, basic fundamentals were stressed in preparation for the future success of JM's football program. The team grew together throughout the season to create a strong unit that played with a tremendous amount of heart.

After an outstanding performance, the Jackets demonstrate that team unity is the key to success.

CHEERS

Complete with brand new uniforms, cheers, and ideas, the football cheerleaders really sported a new look this year. Beginning in August, they organized and ran a cheerleading camp and held numerous bake sales in addition to the manditory practices and workouts.

The spirit and enthusiasm of the football cheerleading squad was never hindered by bad weather or adverse playing conditions. The cheerleaders were always present with a smile and an encouraging word.

FIELD HOCKEY

Evan Whitley scores another goal to become one of the top scorers in the Battlefield District.

Hail to Caroline! HAIL NO!

Kendra Kosko and Martine Banville laugh off another victory after an easy win.

The Varsity Field Hockey Team fared well this season after losing thirteen seniors last year. They placed a close third in the Battlefield District which consists of eight teams. Twenty-five girls came out for the team and to the coaches' surprise, twenty-five girls finished the season. The field hockey teams got psyched for their games by continuing the "secret pal" tradition. Through locker decorations and small "surprises", the spirit and morale of the team was heightened. Field Hockey is one of the most popular girls' sports at Jayem as shown by its large crowd attendance at the matches. With crowd support and team talent, the team had a very successful season.

Erin McKeown and Betsy Harris fight for the ball.

The JV Hockey Team was larger than it had ever been in the past. Even though the bus was crowded, the girls didn't seem to mind once the seniors started the solos and cheers which got them psyched for the game.

It is such a thrill to go to school on a game day and see how your secret pal decorated your locker. The pinnacle of the entire season was when the team tied the score in the last few minutes of the Chancellor game on THEIR field. Coach Brooks was ecstatic, players were doing cartwheels on the sidelines, and everyone was hugging.

The girls on the team were full of spirit, enthusiasm, and comraderie which all contributed to the team's success.

Bridget Walsh and Catherine Ashby laugh about what they are going to get for their secret pals.

GOLF

The school year had not yet begun, but Mr. Sudduth and the Yellow Jackets had already hit the links. With four matches before the academic year had started, the summer was cut shor for the golf team. Excluding this year's Battlefield Distric Champion, Jonathan Hooper, the golf team was not blessed with many seasoned players. The team worked hard, and the experience earned will be long remembered by the golfers. The Jackets finished fifth in the District Tournament and Jonathan Hooper was able to advance to regional competition with hi sudden death playoff win in the tournament. With such young team, the Jackets look forward to a solid season in the upcoming year. The team will return with all but two of thei players, and Patrick Smith looks forward to the challenge!

B A S K E T B A L L

Although records do not always reflect a good season, the experience gained by the teams this year cannot be measured by win/loss numbers. Hustle and hard work personified the Varsity and Junior Varsity Girl's Basketball teams this year. Though many times their inexperience showed, never did the girls let it get them down. The teams were young this year, and often had some girls playing both on the Junior Varsity and the Varsity teams. Sabrina Edmonds said, "Although we didn't win any games, we learned a lot . . . Next year the Girl's Basketball team will come out strong!" A positive attitude like this is bound to bring great things in the years to come. Come out next year to see a stronger team!

CROSS-COUNTRY

There's only one way, all the way, CALLOWAY!

The James Monroe Cross-Country teams were led by Coach Calloway. Both the boys and girls teams worked very diligently to improve their times. Each member of the team put forth a great deal of effort to make James Monroe a strong contender in the Battlefield District. Led by Alex Schol, the boys team was small in number, but big in spirit. The girls team also had a great season. For the first time since 1981, the top five runners received All-District honors. They included Jill Pisenti, Lynn Wagner, Kendra Kosko, Beth Richard, and Sarah Lowry. The girls team placed fourth in the regional meet and qualified for the state meet. In the state meet, Jayem placed ninth out of sixteen teams. Both teams are eager to improve further next season!

BASKETBALL

The James Monroe Varsity Basketball Team displays unity, which is an important aspect of playing well together.

VARSITY

The basketball team had its ups and downs this year. Coach Hamn compared the team to "Jekyll and Hyde"; some days they would be "on", other days they would be "off". Although the team only won four games, they displayed excellent improvement. The team captains were Reggie Jeter and Rob Newman. All the seniors, however, exhibited good team leadership. They set good examples for the younger players and for the J.V. team.

The team, for the first time, participated in the Northern Virginia Daily Tournament held at Warren County High School. The Jackets placed fourth in the tournament.

Coach Hamn was extremely pleased with the rate in which the young players progressed. He looks forward to good seasons ahead. Since all but four of the varsity players are seniors, next year the team will have to move up J.V. players as well as recruit new members.

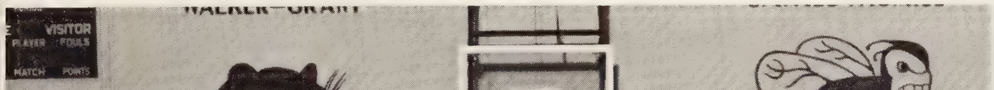
In a fast break to the basket, Tremayne Ellis helps the Yellow Jackets capture a victory over Orange.

Reggie Jeter pauses to catch his breath before raising the score with his foul shots.

Joseph Ellis is an excellent example that the defensive drills do pay off.

After finishing a play, Rob Jones looks over his shoulder to see what call the referee made.

JUNIOR VARSITY



The Junior Varsity Basketball Team, like the Varsity Basketball Team, had their ups and downs. The players played well and were persistent in their efforts. Unfortunately, more than a few wins eluded them. The J.V. players kept their spirits high. They encouraged each other with uplifting comments and moral support.

Instead of appointing a permanent captain for the team, Coach Hamn opted to give each player a shot at being captain by electing a different player to this position for each game. This not only provided fresh motivation in the team's efforts, but instilled a sense of leadership in all the players which became readily apparent both on and off the court.

Toward the end of the season, two of the Junior Varsity players, Sidney Hankerson and Alonzo Lucas, were promoted to the Varsity team. By playing Varsity, the two players received some insight as to what the next three years hold in store.

BASKETBALL CHEERLEADERS

The duties of the Jayem Basketball Cheerleading Squad include not only creating crowd spirit and support, but also keeping the morale of the basketball team high. To accomplish this, the cheerleaders made candy bags, signs, and treats for the players on game days. At the games, the cheerleaders were a constant source of energy and support for the team as well as entertainment for the crowd.

GYMNASTICS

The gymnastics team, under the supervision of Coach Hughes and Coach Williams, worked hard to polish their skills on the uneven bars, the balance beam, the vault, and the floor exercise. Although Jayem did not dominate the Battlefield District, each member strived to improve their personal best scores. Overall, though it was a building season, the team came out on top.

In the spring of 1992, the Jayem baseball team worked well under the leadership of the seniors, and they contended for the district title up until their last two games. Under the supervision of some of Jayem's finest coaches, the baseball players have always been dedicated, but this year's team spirit has gone unmatched. Although the Junior Varsity team was younger, they had a lot of talent and high hopes. They played every game with enthusiasm and the coaches are very optimistic about the future.

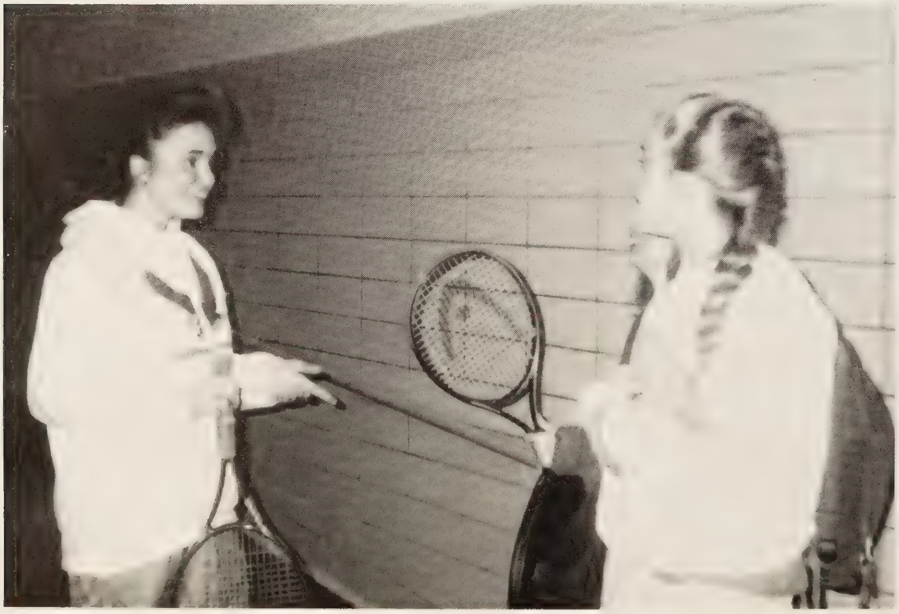
With the addition of a new coach and only tw remaining seniors, the girls' tennis team had t take the time to rebuild this past season. Afte losing four of the top six-seeded players from th 1992 District Champion team, the Jackets had challenging year.

Under Coach Beth Hollibaugh, the team polishe their skills and had a successful season. Eva Whitley, seeded first, performed consistentl against all opponents. Amy Miller made th transition from fourth seed to second see smoothly, and senior Lynette O'Toole filled th third spot with skill.

One highlight of the season was a weekend tri to Harrisonburg. Jayem competed in a tenni tournament there and finished third. Overall, th girls' tennis season was enhanced by the team' spirit, enthusiasm, and success.



Melanie Stevens and Kerri Jones discuss their strategy befor the tennis match that afternoon.

The boys' tennis team, under the direction of veteran tennis coach, Bob Calloway, made great strides in improving their strokes and perfecting their tennis games this spring.

The team lost four of their top six tennis players from the 1991 season and needed some strong players to fill their spots. Clavio Ascari and Marty Johnson rose to this challenge. They led the Jackets in a difficult but successful season. The boys' tennis team finished third overall in the District.

1993 looks to be a building season as six of the twelve members of the team have graduated. But with the expertise of Coach Calloway, the Jackets can never be overlooked in the race for District Champions.

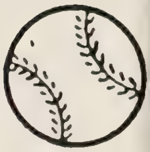
SOFTBALL



At James Monroe High School, the softball team is often overlooked. With a new coach and a young team, however, good things are bound to happen in the future. Although the team was young and lacked experience, the members definitely did not lack enthusiasm or a commitment to hard work. Throughout the season, the girls continued to improve. Though the effort was not proven through numbers, it did show in the smiles on their faces. This improvement was not the work of the girls alone; the two new coaches were an integral part of the team.

"Oh my gosh! There's bird doo on my shoe."

Even with a tough schedule, the Yellow Jackets' soccer team fought to win half of their games. The Jackets faced a hard pre-season with the Chancellor Invitational Tournament which had many of the state's top teams competing. They worked hard and, ". . . always put out a great effort," said Assistant Coach Lovegrove. Although a few of the players have graduated, the majority of last year's team will be returning.

For the first time at James Monroe, a girl tried out for the soccer team. Heather Price added an interesting twist to their season. This seems to be starting a trend; more girls are expected to try out this year.
